As much as that's important, there are things like websites and tools that can, and do, exploit other's information even when you are not seeing any suspicious activity. To help you stay safe, we got stuck on stuff. And when we found them, we wanted to make things easier for you. So, meet the tool that allows you to see the dangers lurking online. _____ A recent study from DefenseOne, the organization that put together the Pentagon's new strategy document, shows that the U.S. Air Force spent approximately $7.5 million last year on its senior citizens over the internet. That's because, according to the Air Force, the senior citizens can get valuable benefits from social networking sites and financial institutions. _____ In April of this year, security researchers found out that people all over the world were able to pose as tech giants like Apple, eBay, Playstation, and Samsung on Facebook, for example. This kind of phishing attacks are actually quite common, since it involves attackers creating fake account which pretend to be the one of a specific tech giant. The competition for the season-ending title was extremely close, with a series of seven two-driver battles for the lead, stretching over four races, then narrowing down to the Championship race, presented by Sears. "All the Camaro drivers know how to work hard on and off the racetrack, and I can't say enough about our team and Joe Gibbs Racing for making this victory possible," says Mark Lappin. "My co-driver (Jac Haudenschild), my pit crew, my teammates, and especially all of the sponsors, Chevrolet, Mobil 1 and Sears, they're all a big part of this win – and I'm proud to represent them all." Even though Mark Lappin is the event's 2019 Camaro ZL1 Champion, his two teammates, Brad Kallmeyer and Brad Coleman, along with the team of drivers (which includes a couple of past JGR race winners) also had strong racing that warranted more than one race victory. Brad Kallmeyer and Brad Coleman fought hard during all four races of the 2019 Camaro ZL1 National Championship, and they battled through the championship race, to bring home their third win of the 2019 season. "It's awesome to be part of a hard-earned championship and put the Camaro ZL1 on the best possible end," says Brad Kallmeyer. "But at the end of the day, I want to thank Joe Gibbs Racing for making this Camaro ZL1 season so special – and the hard work of Mark and his crew." Congratulations to Mark Lappin
