Baseball isn't the only sport at which well-known athletes have been injured. In the NFL, the 2008 season is marked by concussions, and in professional soccer, there are frequent head injuries. "There has been a huge shift over the past 10 years in the way the game is played. It's not as physical as it once was, which is why we get injuries. It's also why there is more emphasis on strategy.... I don't believe there was a more painful time for the game of baseball than the past 10 years." McCann pointed to the jump in MLS draft picks in recent years. Teams have also increased the number of draft picks they offer to foreign leagues. "MLS
