My agenda has never been to change the world or empower myself in any way simply to make the world a better place for people to transition out of the gaming industry. People whose minds are based on the block form don't last too long in the gaming industry. This channel tries to help and support those that are more focused on a more fluid approach to getting to the root of their own beliefs. Why do you need to be as focused on health and happiness and finding your own path to freedom in the first place? On this channel, you'll find a lot of front-facing footage. But the big-picture goals and real-world focus on self-empowerment and personal understanding remain the same.
